MARKET UPDATE

Asian market had mixed return in February. NIKKEI 27,445.56 (+0.43%); Hang Seng 19,785.94 (-9.41%); Shanghai Comp 3,279.61 (+0.74%); Straits Times 3,262.63 (-3.06%); FTSE Malay KLCI 1,454.19 (-2.11%); KOSPI 2,412.85 (-0.50%). The Asian economy is driven by the China economic condition that keeps improving. We see the PMI manufacturing jumped as the economy restarted in Feb23 after the lunar new year holiday in Jan23. China will hold the National People's Congress in March 2023. This event is held once every five years where delegates from around the country will discuss economic, social and political reforms. China will set the agenda for the next five years with a range of new policies and initiatives. The Caixin China General Composite PMI climbed to 51.1 in January 2023 from 48.3 in the previous month. The Chinese New Year festivities led to significant travel across the country, reflecting the population's desire to return quickly to a normal life; that said, consumption seems to have been quite moderate, and while real estate is recovering, transactions remain soft compared to 2021. The annual inflation rate in Japan rose to 4.3% in January 2023 from 4.0% in the prior month. This was the highest reading since December 1981, amid a rise in prices of imported raw commodities and yen weakness. The S&P Global South Korea Manufacturing PMI was up to 48.5 in January 2023 from 48.2 a month earlier, despite the reading pointing to the seventh straight month of contraction in factory activity. PMI Manufacturing Singapore rose slightly to 49.8 in January 2023 from 49.7 in December. JCI increased by 0.06%MoM to 6,843 amid almost Rp5.7tn net foreign buy. The Indonesian stock market was relatively stable in February 2023 following the regional indexes. Global investors are still indecisive due to worrisome that the Fed might raise further the benchmark rate. That happened after the release of US economic data was not in line with expectations. In the US, the employment market is still tight and PCE, the Fed's favorable inflation indicator, is higher than the market forecast. The global narrative has changed that the Fed is unlikely to cut the benchmark rate this year because the rate will be held longer at its peak until the economy reaches stability. However, if we look at the domestic economic condition, it is indisputable that Indonesia is in good shape. The state budget surplus in early the year 2023 due to jumping state revenue, especially VAT is a confirmation that the economy is running well after the government put the covid restriction policy behind at the end of 2022. Many companies released their full-year financial reports. Additionally, the companies announced handsome dividend payout, especially coal companies, banks and conglomerates. This will impact positively overall stock performance the in coming months.
