MARKET UPDATE

Indonesia 10years government bond yield slightly increased by 2.5bps to 6.268% as compared to the last trading day in previous month. Indonesia's solid fundamental, well maintained inflation and relatively stable currency remained a good catalyst for Indo bond market thus also made as BI decided to maintained the interest rate policy for the sixth time on the last meeting. The fixed-income market was stable in July 2023 despite the Fed raising another 25 bps benchmark rate to 5.50%. The Fed raised the Fed rate on the back of a resilient job market and inflation is still higher than overall inflation. The market sees the consistency of monetary policy is needed to affirm the certainty in fighting against inflation. The narrative of recession has faded and been replaced by soft-landing economic conditions. Bank Indonesia did not hike the benchmark rate on the sight of supporting domestic economic growth. BI uses the twist operation in maintaining exchange by selling short-term SBN in the secondary market to increase the attractiveness of SBN yield for foreign portfolio investment inflows. Based on DMO bond flow data as of Jul 31st, 2023, Foreign ownership recorded at 15.6% of the total outstanding and inflow of Rp93tn YTD.
