MARKET UPDATE

Jakarta Islamic Index (JII) decreased by 11% in January. In early 2024, market exhibited stability, contrary to the expectations of a January Effect that many investors anticipated. While global major indexes, especially in developed countries, reached unprecedented highs, the JCI remained relatively stagnant. Two factors contribute to the subdued state of the domestic equity market: a preference for higher flows into developed market equities due to anticipated changes in monetary policy and concerns about political risks associated with the upcoming Indonesian election. During the January FOMC meeting, the Federal Reserve unanimously opted for the fourth consecutive time to maintain the benchmark Federal Funds Rate (FFR) at 5.5%. While acknowledging a positive economic environment, the Fed underscored the necessity for additional evidence of a sustained decline in inflation. Conversely, the domestic market is preoccupied with election-related news, creating a degree of uncertainty for investors. Nevertheless, we view this political risk as temporary and advocate for a longer-term perspective, considering Indonesia's potential for a brighter future under a new government. Additionally, Bank Indonesia is likely to reduce the banking reserve requirement, stimulating banks' loan growth as a precursor to a potential benchmark rate cut later in the second semester of this year, following the example of the US FFR cuts. Sectors that appear favorable in our portfolio include banking, consumer goods, retail, and property, aligning with anticipated macroeconomic conditions. IBPA Sukuk Index (SBIX) increased 0.86% in December. Indonesia 10years sharia government bond yield (PBS025) decreased by 5bps to 6.65%. Following a robust rally in December 2023, there was an increase in US Treasury yields during January 2024. This could potentially be attributed to differing market perspectives on the timing of a Federal Funds Rate (FFR) reduction. During the January FOMC meeting, the Fed unanimously decided for the fourth consecutive time to maintain the benchmark Federal Funds Rate (FFR) at 5.5%. While acknowledging a favorable economic environment, the Fed emphasized the need for further evidence of sustained inflation decline. Despite this cautious stance, the committee judges the risks to achieving its employment and inflation goals are moving into better balance. This indicates the Fed's statement striking a delicate equilibrium by shedding the hiking bias while affirming a reluctance to ease imminently. Consequently, a FFR cut is unlikely in the March meeting, with a more probable occurrence in the middle of the year. The INDOGB yield fluctuated within a narrow band of 6.50% to 6.7% in January 2024. Despite the prevailing stability in the overall economic conditions, the government is actively pursuing a front-loading strategy for bond issuance. While there is an anticipation of reduced bond yields following the expected Bank Indonesia (BI) rate cut in the second half of 2024, there is a concurrent concern about potential increased yield volatility. Therefore, to effectively minimize overall risks, the government must capitalize on the existing positive momentum to issue INDOGB, especially given the current narrow yield spread between the US Treasury yield and INDOGB yield around 200 - 250 basis points. Based on DMO bond flow data as of January 31, Foreign ownership recorded at 1.68% of the outstanding and inflow of Rp0.06tn YTD.
